

PETER SCULCO

Orthopedic Surgeon at Hospital for Special Surgery
New York, New York, United States

Overview

Peter Sculco is an orthopedic surgeon at Hospital for Special Surgery, specializing in hip and knee reconstruction, including primary and revision joint replacements. A graduate of Columbia University and Princeton University, his research focuses on improving patient outcomes and surgical techniques. Patients describe him as thorough, compassionate, and highly skilled.

Outside of his clinical practice, Peter was a member of the track and field team at Princeton, where he majored in Neuroscience and Art History. He is actively involved in research, with numerous publications, and has an interest in medical technology and surgical innovation, holding ownership interests in several healthcare-related companies.

His father, Thomas Sculco, is also a prominent orthopedic surgeon at Hospital for Special Surgery, where he is the Surgeon-in-Chief emeritus.

Topics They Care About

Hip & Knee Replacement

Specializes in primary and complex revision joint replacements of the hip and knee, with extensive research and publications on the topic.

Patient-Centered Care

Received the chief resident award for professionalism and compassion. Patient testimonials frequently mention his thorough, caring, and personal approach to complex cases.

Surgical Innovation

As co-chair of the BioSkills Education Lab at HSS, he is involved in using virtual reality for surgeon training to improve safety and proficiency.

Improving Patient Recovery

Researches strategies for rapid recovery after joint replacement, such as simplifying postoperative protocols and studying medication effectiveness to get patients home faster.

Art & Science

Majored in both Neuroscience and Art History at Princeton University, showing a unique intersection of interests in analytical and creative fields.

New York Sports

[Predicted] Based on his education at Columbia University and current practice in New York City, he likely follows local professional sports teams.

Media Appearances

Peter K. Sculco, MD - Hip and Knee Replacement Surgeon - HSS. Featured in Hospital for Special Surgery (HSS) - Official Website

Read Now

Article

Work History

- 9-2015
Orthopedic Surgeon at Hospital for Special Surgery

Education

- 6-2009 - 6-2010
Surgery Internship from Cornell University
- 9-2005 - 5-2009
Doctor of Medicine - MD from Columbia University

More Information

Social Presence :

Prographics :

Exp : 10    Location : New York, New York, United States    Job Level : N/A

Designation : Orthopedic Surgeon at Hospital for Special Surgery